How to View Student Financial Aid Awards

1. Once you have been granted Authorized User access by a student and created your Community ID, log in to your myGuest dashboard at my.rutgers.edu and click on the student card to launch the student dashboard.

2. Navigate to the My Financial Aid widget and click Award Detail and Information on the Award tab to open the Financial Aid Portal.

3. Click on the Financial tab.

4. Item 1 will show the student's estimated cost of attendance calculated by their selection of campus and school, housing preference, textbooks, as well as additional campus fees.

5. Item 2 will show the student's financial aid awards. These awards can include federal loans and grants, state and institutional grants, merit scholarships, and federal work study, if applicable. It will also indicate if the student will owe anything additional beyond what is included in their financial aid package.

   a. Award information is estimated based on currently available data. These amounts, dates and acceptance criteria may change in the future based on updated data. Students will be notified of any changes via email.

   b. Grants and scholarships can be awarded based on need and/or academic merit. They do not need to be repaid but are subject to specific renewal and eligibility criteria from year to year.

   c. If the student received a merit-based scholarship, it is their obligation to review, understand, and meet the renewal and eligibility criteria standards associated with your merit-based scholarship awards. For more information, visit scarlethub.rutgers.edu/merit.

6. Students will receive communication at a later date regarding how they can accept any federal loans they may have been offered. Prior to accepting any loans, it is highly recommended that students complete entrance counseling to understand how to borrow responsibly.

You are under-funded for Academic Year Sep 1, 2022 - May 15, 2023. You need $19,127.00, which amounts to about $2,268.02 per month, to cover your remaining tuition and fees.

You can accept more funds to cover these costs. If you have already accepted the maximum awarded amounts available, you should reach out to the Financial Aid office to explore additional means to cover these expenses.
